How likely are you to recommend <coach> as a coach to a recruited friend?	Garry Brodhead						He's a okay coach just not relationship oriented
Do you approve of the way <coach> is handling the job as head coach of the <school> <sport> team?	Garry Brodhead	He's in the middle					Somewhat yes , somewhat no
What are <coach>'s greatest strengths and areas for improvement?	Garry Brodhead	He seems to care about academics , but he does not communicate well at all.	His communication	Great area strengths : n/a Areas for improvement : having a relationship with the team, give everyone a fair opportunity to play, don't abuse with words, be respectful to all	Greatest strengths: he cares and truly wants us to succeed Areas of improvement: being effective when coaching	consistentcy	He cares about the program but he doesn't care about the team personally when it comes to real life situations. He also could be better relationship oriented with his team rather than a coach	His honesty is definitely a strength . He just needs to work on staying connected with his players	very direct but needs a better connection with players	Communication
What's going well? Share some of the best reasons to being a member of the <school> <sport> program.		Creates opportunity	Because the team is just like my second family away from home	It pays for school	Being with teammates	the team is great	The support system is pretty good and the community	Our team is very close . Our coaches really care about us as people and as players	getting my school paid for, developing a family off the court	Cause my house down the street
What could be improved? Share some of the challenges to being a member of the <school> <sport> program.		Losing, team isn't on the same page. Discontent among players. Issues with coaching	The food for pre game and the food when we travel	How we are treat as individuals and players.	I feel like their challenges that everyone faces like the adversity of the seasonal	consistentcy	The facilities maybe	The food on road trips is repetitive. But the training table meals are really good.	playing different positions, not playing my specific spot the whole year	Fan base
What should a recruit know about joining the <school> <sport> program?		Get to know the people on the team	That's it's not going to be easy at first but then it gets better	There will be hard times	A recruit should know that basketball will be hard work but it'll be worth it because if the relationships you make.	we push each other	The actually reality of being part of the program. They should know that everything isn't peaches and cream all the time.	The coaches are strictly basketball and academics. If you take care of both you will be okay.	their true spot on the team and learning about the coaches more	Family
What would be most important to you if you were being recruited again?		Seeing if I got along with teammates and if I liked coaches	How are the coaches and players bond	Knowing more about the staff and team	The people	team interaction	For the coaches and players to be honest about a lot of things	The relationship between teammates and between coaches and players would need to be strong and close knit.	actually learning about the team/coaches and how I can benefit them. How can the team benefit me?	Family
Describe <school> to a recruit.		ULL has a lot to off as far as extra-curricular activities.	It's very family oriented	Friendly	It's a great place to be because of the people who want you to exceed.	an accepting community	It's a good school but the student engagement is somewhat not big	Your focus will mostly be on your sport and your academics. However, you will still have a social life	nice people, nice faculties, and very welcoming	Family oriented
Is there anything else that you would like to share with your administrator that could improve your student-athlete experience?		Some of the other coaches cause problems amongst the players. The staff is not on the same page.	No	No	No	no	No	No	no	No
